Thailand's Gold, Silver and Gemstone Districts

A Journey Through the Country's Gems and Jewelry Heartlands

Thailand's gems and jewelry industry is not concentrated in a single city. It is a network of distinctive regional hubs, each shaped by local resources, craftsmanship, trading traditions and cultural identity. For buyers, designers and jewelry enthusiasts, it provides a closer look at the people, skills and traditions behind Thailand's reputation as one of Asia's leading jewelry manufacturing and trading centers.

CHIANG MAI: THE HEART OF NORTHERN SILVER CRAFTSMANSHIP

In northern Thailand, Chiang Mai is synonymous with silver craftsmanship. The city has a long tradition of silversmithing, particularly among artisan communities around Wua Lai Road, where generations of craftsmen have developed distinctive techniques for silverware and silver jewelry inspired by the high arts of the Lanna kingdom.

TRAVEL TIPS: Hang around on Wua Lai Road on Saturday evening to enjoy the pop-up market which will turn the road into a walking street from 17.00-23.00 hrs.

NAN: THE HOME OF ETHNIC NORTHERN SILVER

Further north, Nan boasts Thailand's silver heritage, one closely connected to the cultural traditions of northern communities. Nan's silver craftsmanship is associated with local ethnic traditions, with artisans from different hill tribes (mainly Yao and Hmong) creating jewelry and decorative objects featuring detailed patterns and symbolic motifs. Silver here is not simply a precious metal—it is a way of life.

TRAVEL TIPS: You can learn more about Nan's history of jewelry making at Doi Silver Museum in Pua District of Nan Province.

CHANTHABURI: THAILAND'S COLORED GEMSTONE CAPITAL

Chanthaburi represents colored gemstone expertise. At the center of the city is the famous Srichan Road gemstone district, commonly known as the “Gem Road.” The area has developed into a comprehensive gemstone trading ecosystem, bringing together dealers, cutters, brokers, manufacturers and buyers.

TRAVEL TIPS: The Gem Road, which refers to the main street of Srichan Road and side streets of Soi Krachang, features more than 120 gold, gemstones and precious stone shops together.

PHUKET: WHERE THE ANDAMAN MEETS THE WORLD OF PEARLS

Surrounded by the warm waters of the Andaman Sea, the island has become closely associated with pearl cultivation and the production of cultured pearls, particularly the distinctive South Sea pearls prized for their size, natural luster, and soft, luxurious colors.

TRAVEL TIPS: For pearl enthusiasts, there are pearl farm trips where you will be taken on a long-tail boat to the floating pearl farms to learn about pearl cultivation.

BANGKOK'S CHAROEN KRUNG: THE SILVER AND JEWELRY TRADING HUB

Among the capital's historic jewelry districts, Bangkok's Charoen Krung has long been home to silver jewelry manufacturers and traders. The area also sits within Bangkok's wider jewelry ecosystem, connecting historic trading communities with modern designers, manufacturers, exporters and international buyers. The surrounding Bang Rak-Silom-Mahesak area is another essential part of Bangkok's jewelry landscape. Mahesak is known as a major gemstone trading district, while Silom is home to the Jewelry Trade Center, bringing together businesses involved in gemstones, jewelry manufacturing and international trade.

TRAVEL TIPS: Head to Jewellery Land if you are looking for tools and equipment for jewelry making, but if you are interested in treasure hunting, visit Eastern Antiques or House of Gems.

BANGKOK'S YAOVARAT: THAILAND'S GOLD DISTRICT

No map of Thailand's jewelry districts would be complete without Yaowarat, Bangkok's Chinatown and historic gold-trading center. Known for its concentration of gold shops, Yaowarat is one of the most recognizable destinations for Thai gold jewelry. Traditional gold necklaces, bracelets, rings, earrings and other pieces line the streets, reflecting a long-established relationship between gold, commerce and Thai-Chinese communities.

TRAVEL TIPS: Not many know that there is a gold museum hidden above the Toh Kung gold shop. The museum entry is free, but advance reservation is required via the shop's Facebook page at www.facebook.com/TTKGoldTrader.

FROM GOLD TO SILVER TO GEMS: A NATIONAL JEWELRY MAP

Together, these destinations demonstrate that Thailand's jewelry strength is not based on a single material or manufacturing technique. Its competitive advantage comes from the connection between craftsmanship, gemstone expertise, manufacturing, design, culture, and trade. From a silver ornament hammered by hand in northern Thailand to gemstones cut and polished in Chanthaburi, from traditional gold jewelry in Yaowarat to the pearls of Phuket and contemporary pieces developed in Bangkok, every destination contributes a different chapter to Thailand's jewelry story.
